

Article 100: Infinite-Patterning in Action part 4

Following the patterning revealing in Article 99, you probably discovered that "...your constantly expressing your judgments is not because you properly understand events or situations around you ...or that, by doing so, you feel fully empowered, it is because you want a brief moment of peace from your own judgments ...which you are not willing to give to yourself directly". Does continuing this make any sense? You cannot really expect "to rid yourself of the choices and feelings you've been living in life without changing," ...can you? Or maybe you feel you can conceal your judgments under a covering of love. Do you really believe you can judge and be loving at the same time? Are you, in this, denying your judgments or forsaking your love? Are you, in this, denying your judgments or forsaking your love?

What is love? Love enables you to exist. Love breathes life into you ...and supports you; love nourishes and strengthens you; love provides the base for you to grow and expand; and love guides your blossoming. Love is all there is, expressing in infinite ways to bring about the manifestation and functions of love. Love is pure non-duality in essence and non-judging in function; ...and infinite, all-encompassing love always remains as love in every manifestation ...and in all formlessness. Love is an awakening to your true nature and purpose, to the truth of all perceptions and sensing, and to the reality of your self and life, ...and love distinguishes the real from the unreal. The love within self and all others, and within all things in the universe, should be recognized by everyone, ...but not everyone engages in intimate and perceptive enquiry.

Since love is unconditional or it is not love, and since all judgments impose conditions, all judgments, in any form, destroy love. Awakening others to their love or expressing your own love is only possible without judgment, ...in fact, absent judgment, only unconditional love remains.

You cannot find or give love, discover the "right" expressions of love, be particularly loving, or do something that is in itself loving, ...but, without judgments, you are living and enlivening love and acceptance. Searching for love or satisfying expressions of love is unimportant, what is important is unlocking the door of judgments and opening yourself so love can manifest and enliven through you, ...for regardless of what you believe, all judgments jealously guard, conceal, and withhold love and acceptance. For instance, acceptance and forgiveness of someone's actions are clear measures of your own judgment, unacceptance, and unforgiveness, ...for if you had not originally judged those actions as improper or offensive, you would have nothing to accept or forgive. Acceptance and forgiveness, then, clearly reveal your judgments, not your love, for love is never enlivened or expressed with judgments.

Now, to expand your understanding of desirable emotions such as joy, serenity, pleasure, gladness, appreciation, or compassion, insert these in the paragraph below. Or maybe you are interested in expanding your awareness of consciousness, God, goodness, fulfillment, awareness, enrichment and excitement, passion, forgiveness and acceptance, or wellbeing, if so, insert these words, ...or maybe you would like to understand more about understanding. Try inserting manifestation, physical life, "your life today" and see what is patterned and what is revealed.

What is _____? _____ enables you to exist. _____ breathes life into you ...and supports you; _____ nourishes and strengthens you; _____ provides the base for you to grow and expand; and _____ guides your blossoming. _____ is all there is, expressing in infinite ways to bring about the manifestation and functions of _____. _____ is pure non-duality in essence and non-judging in function; ...and infinite, all-encompassing _____ always remains as _____ in every manifestation ...and in all formlessness. _____ is an awakening to your true nature and purpose, to the truth of all perceptions and sensing, and to the reality of your self and life, ...and _____ distinguishes the real from the unreal. The _____ within self and all others, and within all things in the universe, should be recognized by everyone, ...but not everyone engages in intimate and perceptive enquiry.

Since _____ is unconditional or it is not _____, and since all judgments impose conditions, all judgments, in any form, destroy _____. Awakening others to their _____ or expressing your own _____ is only possible without judgment, ...in fact, absent judgment, only unconditional _____ remains.

You cannot find or give _____, discover the "right" expressions of _____, be particularly _____ing, or do something that is in itself _____ing, ...but, without judgments, you are living and enlivening _____ and acceptance. Searching for _____ or satisfying expressions of _____ is unimportant, what is important is unlocking the door of judgments and opening yourself so _____ can manifest and enliven through you, ...for regardless of what you believe, all judgments jealously guard, conceal, and withhold _____ and acceptance. For instance, acceptance and forgiveness of someone's actions are clear measures of your own judgment, unacceptance, and unforgiveness, ...for if you had not originally judged those actions as improper or offensive, you would have nothing to accept or forgive. Acceptance and forgiveness clearly reveal your judgments, not your _____, for _____ is never enlivened or expressed with judgments.

Speaking of one manifestation such as anger (Art.99) or love enables you to clearly see and know, through infinite-patterning, similar manifestations without any direct knowledge of them, ...and this infinite-patterning also enables you to see and understand errors or mistakes in similar beliefs, thoughts, attitudes, emotions, words, and actions, ...but when you understand what the words are conveying, throw them away and truly sense the patterning ...just as you would sense a gentle breeze at the dawning of a new day ...or at the dawning of a new awareness. For through consciousness you enliven the fragrance of flowers, the whispers of gentle breezes, the warmth of the sun, the flavor of food, the flutter of a butterfly, the morning dampness of grass, ...or the violence and terror of a hurricane from the universe's infinite-patterning. Whether a pleasure or misery, the enlivened manifestations in your universe are your creations. Whether it is the conflagration of a fire or its cleansing and rebirth, the totality of creation is within you.

You have the sacred and divine free will and empowerment to bifurcate all things and struggle endlessly against your own creations ...or live the enriching and fulfilling life you truly desire; ...the truth and oneness of your manifesting infinite-patterning will support either choice. The infinite-patterning is a phenomenal "flash" of awareness within you of what can be, it is a stimulus of consciousness ...and an awakening of what to enliven and manifest from life's infinite-patterning.

Your consciousness does not sense, project, or test the phenomenal universe, your consciousness enlivens and manifests the phenomenal universe it is living and experiencing from its underlying infinite-patterning, which enables infinite variation within constancy and consistency, discrimination without separation, and individuality within oneness. You live within all that you have enlivened ...and as such, you and I are one.

Do not listen to those who declare that what is enlivened and manifested through consciousness lives only in consciousness and has no independent existence, ...for this is not so. The underlying infinite-patterning of each "thing" protects and maintains infinite variation within consistent existence, ...which gives you the free will and empowerment to create the self and life you truly desire, so you can live in the personal world of your dreams ...and not merely live in a universe with a self and purpose imposed upon you.

Are you beginning to understand why we say that every event and circumstance reveals the self and life you are living? It is because you have enlivened and manifested those events and circumstances from the underlying infinite-patterning. Since every particular or personal event, condition, circumstance, and situation which you enliven and manifest in your self and life is relative to your consciousness, by declaring your self and purpose, you can constantly and consistently enliven and manifest as you truly desire ...and understand your life and creations ...and the infinite-patterning being revealed. This awareness is like intuition, wherein you know without really knowing how you know. Well, now you know that this is because, through your enlivenings and manifestations, you have seen or sensed the underlying infinite-patterning spread out before you.

Every event, condition, circumstance, and situation in your life is a direct, separate, and personal manifestation of the underlying infinite-patterning ...frequently referred to as the "hidden truth of life", ...but, as you can see, with attentive understanding, nothing is ever truly hidden, ...everything is completely revealed, ...for the truth of life is the infinite-patterning ...and the truth of yourself is what you enliven and manifest.

Like a silkworm that weaves its own cocoon, you enclose yourself in the self and life and universe of your own creation, ...have you created what binds and encloses you? ...or what protects and frees you? Have you created a universe of illness, fear, doubt, anxiety, and suffering? Don't be too quick to deny your own creations.

By seeing and understanding the infinite-patterning of all things, enriching, fulfilling, and expansive awarenesses and experiences await you, ...and a wondrous new self and life can be enlivened and manifested from the paterning revealed in every individual, event, condition, circumstance, and situation, ...for this will end your judgments, show you to greater and finer opportunities, and guide you to live the extraordinary beliefs, thoughts, attitudes, emotions, words, and actions you desire.

This knowledge is only a means to an end, for you must look for patterns, enrich and expand your awareness, and live the guidance offered by infinite-patterning. If you take guidance only from the beliefs, experiences, and feelings which you have previously enlivened and manifested through consciousness, you will remain in bondage to what you have previously created and lived. Have you learned and accepted as "truth" worldly or seeming spiritual teachings or revelations which conflict with the infinite-patterning we are awakening you to? If you are confused and not living the self and life you desire, maybe those teachings are not true ...and were never meant for you. Do you feel restricted in creating and living the self and life you desire? Do you feel judged? ...or feel you will be judged? Are you living with guilt, regret, and anxieties? ...with resentments? Are all of your beliefs, thoughts, attitudes, emotions, words, and actions wise? ...or otherwise?

You live in an ever-changing, ever-revealing universe, ...isn't it time to replace your old, worn-out beliefs and teachings? ...and begin living the self and life you truly desire? Do you see the benevolent infinite-patterning in this?

Clinging to traditional mistaken beliefs, continues your judgments and struggles.
