

Article 265: Your Spiritual Self and Language –part 4

All things physical ARE spiritual, as spiritually physical, ...are you willing to forsake spiritual as a future state ...and live that right now•at every moment•in every thing? There is only one selfhood, ...therefore, everything you do to others you do to yourself ...and to the oneness of your spiritual being, and though you may believe your spiritual being is hidden, it is never concealed within you.

Since your physical self and life is your spiritual self and life, living all things physical as spiritual and all things spiritual as physical is self-realization right now. The only veil that distorts you into believing that spiritual and physical are different and opposing is not your beliefs and ways, it is the self-created, self-maintained language you use to generate your beliefs and ways ...and the false conclusions that generates. If you maintain your language and the structure of that language ...and try to change your beliefs and ways, you face a futile task, for no matter what you change or seem to change, everything follows the underlying pattern of language, which is an endless pattern of separate things doing separate things, of duality and opposing opposites, of causing, of good and evil, of physical and spiritual, and of knowing and unknowing, such that nothing really changes, ...haven't you experienced this most of your life? ...and haven't you also felt that a separate good or spiritual way will overcome these problems? Did you ever consider that believing in a separate overcoming-spirit is the foundation and continuation of your problems and difficulties? ...and the source of your pains and illnesses? Are you willing to surrender a separate greater-spirit and begin living the oneness of your physical•spiritual self as you truly desire right now?

In doing this, you are meaningfully all-powerful in your self and life ...and God's mind is your mind ...consciously realized. Spiritual does not demand faith, faultlessness, or purity of mind and actions, spiritual being physical accepts you completely as you are. You are not growing physically to become spiritual, you are spiritual in every way and action, ...and though living all things as physically•spiritually one seems difficult, this is only because you are addicted to your language; ...by forsaking language-spirituality as a greater, finer overcoming ...or as a uniter of what language alone tears asunder, life is truly simple and spiritually enhancing and enriching in all things, ...only language and understanding through that language have made everything complex and confusing, wearisome, and unenriching.

God-consciousness is your physical-awareness, ...are you willing to accept and live yourself to the fullest? ...or will you continue denying yourself to language? There are no greater awarenesses and lesser awarenesses, no greater or lesser powers or ways to live, no greater or lesser understandings or expressions, no greater or lesser love or caring or healing, no greater or lesser truths or reality, meaning and purpose, or way to live. If you judge you are judgmental, for there is no proper or correct judgment, or right or wrong way to judge, ...any judgment is judgmental. An imperfect self and life does not contrast or oppose a divine lifese. Your physical self does not conflict with your immortal soul. Confinement opposing freedom does not exist; you are not free in spirit and confined in physical, you are as free as you choose ...and as secure as you believe, or as confined and limited as you live. How can you possibly expect to live a divine life of God-like realization while living your divisive language?

Instead of creating truth and understanding ...and a divine life, language maintains your ignorance of life ...and living as you truly desire. Does God speak only to particular individuals in unique ways? ...or does God speak to everyone at all times in every way? You do not have to seek or earn heavenly riches, for they lie all around you within physical reach if you will but remove the cataracts of language from your eyes and understanding. You may easily rise above languaged limitations ...not by struggling against these presumed limitations, but by changing your language and seeing clearly again.

Your physical selfimage does not obscure or destroy awarenesses of your true spiritual self ...for the two are mutually supportively one. Your physical existence IS your spiritual existence ...and your physical language is your spiritual language. There is no physical-you in conflict with a spiritual-you, ...and your mortal self does not conceal or oppose your immortal self, for your past lives clearly reveal the immortality of your mortal self. There is no spiritual path or spiritual awareness, there is only your way ...and your awarenesses.

Your real self and life is physical.

End all misbeliefs that you are in any way a "fallen being" who must find your way back to the kingdom of God ...or struggle to become one with God, ...remove your existing language-glasses and see who you are, what all things are, and where you are, ...you have never left the kingdom of heaven, in fact, you have awakened again and again to this kingdom of heaven ...and denied that and yourself.

We have constantly asked you to always sense and live your declaredself, for in that your life and world transcend your language limitations ...so you can live and thrive as you truly desire without imposing false beliefs and limitations upon your spiritually physical self and life, ...now we want you to change your physical language to correctly affirm your spiritual being ...or declaredself at all times.

For example, since opposings and dualities do not exist, constructs such a good/bad, worthy/unworthy, right/wrong must be replaced with anabeliefs; where interactive dualities remain, such as action and reaction, give and take, create and live, embody and manifest, reveal and make plain, and offer and accept, these express as mutually supportive couplets; cause become "because"; all things are properly described as the actions they embody; "not things" are removed as not-existent; all limiting•concealing words are to be removed ...or properly corrected; and of course the past•present•future tense of language will be changed to the awareness and tense of noncetime. With these changes, your physical language is the true, clean voice of spirit speaking directly to you ...and for you, so your self and life and world can be realized•lived•experienced as the immortal spiritual adventure it is, for in this, life is an immortal, unlimited, fully supported oneness of noncetime. Is there a finer description of heaven on earth than this? ...and your language will enable you to speak clearly and plainly for all that you are.

With these changes, you can fully know and realize yourself at all times, there is never anything to struggle against or avoid, you are empowered to live as you truly desire, and you can clearly know your immortality in noncetime. Are you willing to realize and live your spiritual•physical self and life beginning with these language changes?

Stop languaging your self and life out of all that you and life truly are.
