

Article 383: Moving-To ...or Moving-From -part 2

Two vital questions in your life are not, who am I? ...and, why am I here? ...the important questions are, are you moving to or moving from? ...and, if a tree falls in the forest and no one is there to hear, does the falling tree make a sound?

And a related but not so important question is ...if we are both standing on the moon ...and I shout, "Look out for the falling rock!" ...will you hear me? I'm not asking whether you will pay attention, I'm just asking whether you will hear me shouting.

Now, my answers: You will experience your life open expansively if you live moving-from, ...and you will find your life narrowing and closing down as you continue languaging and living yourself moving-to; ...and as the tree falls it makes waves ...but no sound, ...it takes a listener to make a sound, ...by listening, you make the falling tree sound, ...however, if I ask you to listen to your privilegedbeing, you will probably ask, "Listen to what? What am I listening for?" As I declared in our Gathering on Truelistening, you must listen ...and in listening you sound your privilegedbeing, ...but you won't listen, you want to listen-to or listen-for, ...have you ever wondered what you might sound if you stopped listening-to or listening-for ...and just listened? Consider what you might hear if you listened me, listened and intimate-partner, or listened the world around you ...for listening makes sound!

Do you remember a time when you felt someone truly listened to you? ...was that listener silent ...or truly participating in the conversation with you? ...drawing out your words ...and expressions of your feelings? Truelistening, or trulylistening, means getting involved and staying focused, ...it is keeping the speaker focused ...and expanding that person's awareness and understandings. Truelistening is not intruding or changing the subject; it is profound intimacy and connectioning; it is drawing the other person out and letting yourself in; and truelistening is profound personal involvement.

Do you want others to listen to you? ...to truly listen to you in these ways? ...to sound out and give voice to you? ...to clarify and understand you? ...to be actually involved in what you are saying? ...in what you are soundlessly expressing? ...and in what you are leaving unspoken?

Are you willing to intimately know others? ...and give voice to their deepest desires? ...without judging or criticizing in mouth or mind? Like a falling tree, most of what happens in life, especially in your life, passes unknown ...simply because no one will listen and sound out those things. Listening is real involvement ...or you aren't listening!

How about yourself, ...can you listen to yourself? ...truly listen to yourself? ...or are you too close ...and unable to sound out what is important? Can you look within for a listener who will give voice to your concerns and true desires? Maybe looking within for answers, paying attention to your feelings, or following your intuition is not so wise ...because you really don't know how to listen. Ohh, you can certainly speak to yourself ...but like most people you probably can't listen ...and you never really listen to yourself.

All the advice you have ever heard about truly listening is false and ineffective!

If you are beginning to listen and understand these words, then you can also understand that the world around you, as a listener, constantly gives voice to you, sounds out your intimate desires, and gives voice to you; ...life is your listener! ...the universe is your listener! Do not listen to what you think the world has to say, but through the world around you ...listen to what you have to say.

Of course, you won't sound me on the moon where the atmosphere is too thin to carry waves ...so you'll probably be hit by the falling rock. It seems that the shoutings of everything around you are silent because you won't listen and sound them either ...and also because the atmosphere of your self and life is too thin.

Do you understand that by declaring how you will be eternally alive you have touched the divine? ...and profoundly enriched and vitalized the environment and atmosphere of your self and life? In always and only enlivening yourself by this declaration you are enlivening and living the divine ...and letting the divine serve you; by truelistening you are giving voice to the divine; and in these things you are living the benefits of the divine ...and enlivening the benefits of your declaration in the universe.

Does all of this seem to be too much information to understand? ...then consider that you live in an internet world which generates and distributes more and more data and information every day, ... are you coping with this information overload? ...or keeping up? ...or are you just ignoring most of what is available to you ...and not listening?

Almost any information about life can be useful, and through compression, more and more is available, so how do you winnow-out and correlate this flood of information in your life? Do you have a staff of people working for you to selectively process and preview all of this information? ...if not, how do you cut through this jungle of information? ...or are you falling further and further behind? Actually, there doesn't seem to be any limit to the data and information available in the universe, ...how will you sort all of that out for you? ...and keep up? Don't you wish you had a phone with information-sorting rather than call-waiting?

Well, you do ...and it's called truelistening ...which selectively previews and sorts data and information according to your declaration ...and voices that to you.

If that sounds a little crazy, consider the following: Does your DNA actually determine who you are? ...your body that is? ...or is it possible that your DNA merely sorts through all possible body and person-data•information and selects that to suit you? ...as you direct?" As a gene is a functional unit of DNA which has a particular influence on your physical body ...you also have a privilegedbeing code~PBC~ which sorts through the universe's data and information according to your functioning declaration and presents your privilegedcoded data and information for you to truelisten, ...actually, you listen and sound your privilegedbeing to life ...or ignore and deny yourself. Your privilegedbeing's code~your PBC~is your declaration ...which is the foundation of your self and life which you are moving-from ...not moving-to.

Actually, since the universe is moving-from the Big Bang ...and you and all others are in the universe as part of the universe, you and all others are moving-from with the universe.

You have spent much of your life in busy preparation
...what are you preparing for?
