

Article 415: Outside the Box -part 32

You've Given Your Life and Soul To Cause and Effect!

In your mind and beliefs, is there a universal law or action apart from cause and effect? Do you exist apart from cause and effect? ...or, if you are the effect of a cause, do you know that effect? ...or the cause of that effect? Who are you? Why have you come to life? Is there any condition or situation in your life apart from cause and effect? ...what situation? ...and how did that occur apart from cause and effect? Even if you have, until now, confined your self and life ...and beliefs and feelings to cause and effect ...and feel you cannot change that, you can live anew from this point on, ...but you don't care ...right?

In your cause and effect life, if a situation did occur or has occurred, ...that is cause and effect, but if the situation is occurring or might occur in the future ...is that cause and effect? In this, it seems that cause and effect only occurs in the appearance of time that cause and effect occurs, which shows that cause and effect is self-sustaining ...which reveals that cause and effect is not cause and effect, ...got it!?

As long as you believe that cause and effect is some great power or revelation that will heal and empower you ...or enrich you, it will be around in your life for a long cause and effect created time. You have been worshipping cause and effect as your savior from pain and illness ...and lack without realizing that the struggles and limitations of cause and effect are revealed by your feelings of pain, illness, and lack. Cause and effect only causes cause and effect!

In your mind and beliefs, does thinking occur independent of cause and effect? Is there life apart from cause and effect? Do emotions occur free of cause and effect? There are many expressions ...but only one cause and effect principle ...and that is the very foundation of the self and life you live. You obviously believe that cause and effect is the only source of individual being ...your being. Cause and effect is your God! ...and your destruction.

So much attention has been on accepting cause and effect, being faithful to cause and effect, and trusting cause and effect that no attention was given to question whether cause and effect is real; ...you were told to accept cause and effect ...and all things of cause and effect, ...and you did! ...now I'm asking you to move beyond cause and effect, ...and you are reluctant to change. Cause and effect has taken over your soul ...and you are fearful, because you are uncertain whether there could be life beyond cause and effect, so you're unwilling to move beyond cause and effect.

Do you know the true nature of the cause and effect you've given your life and soul to? ...is cause and effect loving, benevolent, and supportive? Can you trust cause and effect? ...and be supported by cause and effect as you truly desire? What do you expect cause and effect to do for you? If you believe it will set you free ...you are foolish, for cause and effect will only bind you more strongly and closely to itself ...to strengthen and perpetuate cause and effect. You cannot trust cause and effect ...the Great Deceiver! Faith and trust directed toward cause and effect is wasted. What you have faith in binds you ...and what you trust will betray you ...and misguide you, ...actually, you betray and misguide yourself! It seems that you only have the mind and body and soul that cause and effect allows you ...and in that cause and effect has sucked the "spirit" of your privilegedbeing out of you.

Cause and effect consciousness declares your limits! ...and limits you. Do you see that as cause and effect is in your minding only cause and effect appears to you? ...which justifies cause and effect consciousness, such that wisdom and understanding beyond cause and effect are lost from you. Do not seek release from the things and desires of this world, instead, surrender cause and effect ...so all you desire can be yours. Are you beginning to sense that peace within you and all around you is peace from cause and effect? ...and from the struggles and ravages of cause and effect? Are you willing to continue letting cause and effect be alive and active through you? ...or will you open the door to minding and living beyond cause and effect ...and step through?

Are you willing to know and understand yourself as you truly are? ...and know and enjoy people for what they are as well? ...not merely for their actions and appearances ...or some other quality? People are actually manifested privilegedbeings, ...can you see them as they are? Cause and effect keeps you judging appearances and actions ...and blinds you to the truth of what you are judging? ...however, the coalescence of mind to matter does not conceal the mindformed privilegedbeing that is embodied, ...all is clearly revealed to open•honest•intimate perception and awareness, ...but cause and effect blinds you to this realization and moves you in a different direction ...away from yourself as a privilegedbeing ...and all you truly desire. Only cause and effect would lead you to believe that embodied individualization covers you with layers ignorance, limitation, and confusion, for though you don't believe it now, your personal embodiment actually covers you with enlightened awareness and guidance.

The first steps beyond cause and effect to enlightened awareness and guidance, though sometimes tentative and doubtful, are usually accompanied by feelings of pleasure, release, and enchantment, for, after years of struggle and resistance, everything seems so easy and inspiring, ...of course, as you continue, these feelings will not stay with you, for living beyond cause and effect will become naturally you ...and you will rest in the fulfilling contentment of that to live as you truly desire, ...are you willing to sacrifice any of that for continuing cause and effect?

If you seek the reason about and understand something, such as the question whether you are willing to sacrifice all you can be and have for cause and effect, do so without cause and effect, so you will not be mistaken or deceived ...or led astray, ...and remember, as the universe minds in forms and appearances, there is no way for you to think independent of forms and appearances in mind, ...but do not become attached to particular cause and effect expressions ...though you can express your preferences ...but remember, cause and effect limits and destroys preferences!

In considering whether you are willing to sacrifice any or all of what you can be and have for cause and effect, do not quiet or darken your mind, let it remain fully active and shining brightly as the sun, ...for as the sun requires "stuff" to keep it bright ...individual mind is the same, ...and as the sun brightens all things, your mind actually enlightens and enhances you through the appearances of thoughts in mind, ...however, in minding and enlightening, the nature of you and your mind, like the nature of the sun, are not changed by minding, ...however, as the sun can be concealed from you, cause and effect conceals many things from you.

Intuitive realizations and revelations beyond relative concepts and cause and effect are a hoax, for what is supposedly discerned intuitively is experienced, realized, and languaged back to cause and effect ...which limits and destroys the intuitive awareness; ...to remain true and accurate, intuitive realizations and revelations must be experienced, realized, and languaged beyond cause and effect, not in confusing distorted cause and effect ways.
